Specialty Feature

General Surgery Clinic

General surgeons have knowledge and familiarity with a range of diseases that require surgical treatment in a variety of areas of the body:

- » Stomach
- » Liver
- » Intestines
- » Appendix
- » Breasts
- » Thyroid gland
- » Salivary glands

Christopher Seip, MD, a general surgeon from the Surgery Group of Grand Island, sees patients every Tuesday at the VCHS Specialty Clinic in Ord.

Dr. Seip earned his bachelor's degree from Chadron State College (1995) and his Doctor of Medicine from the University of Nebraska Medical Center, College of Medicine (1999). He completed his Residency in General Surgery at Michigan State University in Lansing, Michigan (2004). Following that residency, he moved back home to Nebraska where he practiced in Lincoln and then North Platte for 10 years before joining the Surgery Group of Grand Island. He is certified in Advanced Trauma Life Support and is a member of the American College of Surgeons.

Growing up in a small ranching community, Dr. Seip enjoys seeing the familiar, good-natured patients in Ord and local communities, and he enjoys working in the "top notch VCHS facility" and with the hardworking VCHS staff.

In addition to Dr. Seip, the Surgery Group of Grand Island includes John Goering, MD, Brant Luebke, MD, and Steven Schneider, MD.

Call 308.728.4249 to schedule an appointment with Dr. Seip or to learn about other services at the VCHS Specialty Clinic in Ord.
